Instructions for Filling in the Update Form

This on-line form is designed to be filled out using Adobe Acrobat Reader version 7 or later. Once all information is entered click the ATTACH button below and a copy of this form will be automatically attached to a new e-mail message.

Next send the attached PDF file, along with any comments and/or additional Update Form overflow descriptive information, to:

WesternEngineBooks@hathaworld.com

Please fill in all of the indicated contact information—for use in case the author or an associate needs to contact you for clarification and/or additional engine information. However, please be assured that it is only your name, city and state information that will actually be added to and appear on the engine list information (see example below—at arrow—for a fictional John Doe). All other personal contact information, such as street address, telephone number and e-mail address will be kept strictly private.

The following is an example of how a typical updated entry might look:

	• Owners Comments: Engine found in abandoned silver mine in Podunk, Nevada, during a cross-country bike race. Parts of the engine were strewn everywhere, but after search all missing items were located and the engine made complete.

Please note that the act of submitting any engine update information (in any format whatsoever—electronic, facsimile, written or other) does, in and of itself, thereby explicitly constitute and give permission and authorization for the author to use any such material submitted in the Western History Project and/or revised Western History Books, and do so as the author deems appropriate. Submission, in and of itself, however, does not guarantee the use and/or publication of any material. In addition, any information submitted or offered and that may be deemed inappropriate or offensive (at the sole discretion of the author or his representatives) shall be promptly rejected without recourse, remedy or notice.
